

TRANSDISCIPLINAIRES - International Interdisciplinary Philosophical Conference : « Transformed Humanity in search for stability : rhythms in philosophy, nature, art » - Riga, University of Latvia - May 16-18, 2024

mercredi 1er mai 2024, par Rhuthmos

Sommaire

- May 16
- May 17
- May 18

Program

May 16

10:30 - 11:00 : Registration

11:00 : Welcome addresses. Governance of the University of Latvia

Ineta Kivle, University of Latvia.

« The conference thematic and actuality »

« Conference Navigation »

11:30 : Keynote lecture

Pascal Michon, International interdisciplinary research platform "RHUTHMOS"

« Why we need the notion of rhuthmos today ? »

Coffee

13:00 - 14:30 — Section I. RHYTHMANALYSIS TOWARDS STABILITY

Maija Kūle, University of Latvia

« Rhythm and fundamental phenomena »

Branko Klun, University of Ljubljana

« Repetition and stability within human temporality. An existential-phenomenological approach »

Lunch

16:30 - 18:00 — Section II. RHYTHMS OF BODY, LIFE AND SOCIALITY : EXISTENCE AND ETHICS

Monika Rogowska-Stangret, University of Białystok

« Cross-scale Rhythms of Posthumanity in Times of Environmental Crisis. Transforming the “anthropo” in the Anthropocentre »

Maja Bjelica, Science and Research Centre Koper

« Rhythms of Silence for a Posthuman Ethics »

Reena Cheruvalath, The Birla Institute of Technology & Science, BITS Pilani

« Making a truce between one’s original rhythms of life with exhibited rhythms and its aftereffects »

Linda Gedina, Independent Researcher

« Topography of Anticipation »

May 17

11:00 : Keynote lecture

Lenart Škof, Science and Research Centre Koper

« Rhythms of Breath, Rhythms of Love »

Coffee

12:30 - 13:30 — Section III. HUMANITY, RHYTHMS, AND NATURE

Gina Stamm, The University of Alabama

« Plant-time in Life and Poetry »

Johanna Kirschbauer, University of the Arts in Berlin

« Learning from Fluid Forms : On the potential of clouds, swarms, and mucus as models for the post-human age »

Anne Sauka, University of Latvia

« Rhythm and Rupture : Experiential Realms of the Naturecultured Self »

Lunch

16:00 - 18:00 — Section IV. RHYTHMS OF MEDIA AND TECHNOLOGIES

Justina Šumilova, Lithuanian Culture Research Institute

« Maurice Blanchot : Exploring the Interplay of Rhythm, Silence, and Hacking »

Gal Gerson, The University of Haifa, Mt. Carmel

« The open society and technological change : Karl Popper on the potentiality of a digitally- managed civilization »

Zane Ozola, University of Latvia

« Philosophical Perspectives on Contemporary Culture : Homo Aestheticus »

18:00 — EVENING RECEPTION

May 18

10:30 - 14:00 — Section V. RECORDED VIDEO LECTURES : RHYTHMANALYSIS AND REVERSIBILITY

Salomé Lopes Coelho, University of Lisbon

« Rhuthmanalysing human and extra-human enmeshments in contemporary art »

Paulina Zguda, Jagiellonian University in Krakow

« Fine feathers make fine birds (or robot) : Design and perception of social robots »

Suneel Jethani, University of Technology in Sydney

« Rhythm in geo and bio media »

Patrick Burke, Gonzaga University in Florence

« The Rhythm of Reversibility »

Eric Goodfield, American University of Beirut

« Wu wei and the Daoist Paradoxes of the Political »

Coffee

12:00 - 14:00 — Section VI. RHYTHMS OF ARTS AND COMPUTATION

Valda Vidzemniece, Jāzeps Vītols Latvian Academy of Music

« Rhythm in dance : traditions and alternative approaches »

Pedro Florêncio, University of Lisbon

« After Ruhr (2009) : rhythmic modulations and critical hypnosis in James Benning's redemptive cinema »

Matti Pulli, University of Turku

« Transformed Humanity and Rhythm. Love, Rhythm and Computation »

CONCLUSIONS

Natalia Anna Michna

« The Polish Journal of Aesthetic, Poland »